

I think the FCC's recent decision to increase fines is a travesty. There is no reason that a Government organization needs to be run by certain groups of people that complain and not the vast majority of people that could care less. The FCC needs to understand the needs of the standard public that does not complain and understand that parenting is for parents not the government.